V. Special Presentations

A. TGIF Funding Allocations Presentation—Patricia Zimmerman

-Zimmerman provided an analysis of the spring 2010 funding allocations made by The Green Initiative Fund committee. There were a total of twelve eligible applications submitted, and all twelve of the eligible applications received funding. The Green Initiative Fund (TGIF) is a grant-making fund for sustainability projects on UCLA's campus. Roughly, $200,000 per year is available for student-initiated sustainability projects on campus. Projects will be selected for funding by an annually appointed Grant Making Committee consisting of students, faculty, and staff in which students have the majority vote. TGIF is funded by a $4 per quarter student fee beginning in fall 2008 and persisting for 10 years (TGIF website). Zimmerman noted that a total of $252,523.86 was requested, and $222,820.90 was allocated. She then shared an overview of the projects which received funding from TGIF. The first project is aimed at installing electronic hand dryers in Kerckhoff Hall restrooms; the project was allocated a total of $15,700.00 to complete the project. The primary purpose of this project is to reduce unnecessary paper waste in the building, and was initiated by the Office of the General Representative 3, Tak Nguyen. The second funding allocation of $3,250.00 went to an effort to educate the student body on sustainability issues titled “All Signs Point to Green”. This project was initiated through the Office of the USAC President, and will be making use of the funds to place sandwich boards on Bruin Walk promoting various messages related to sustainability, recycling, and energy conservation. The third allocation of $5,150.00 was given to fund a project initiated by E3. This initiative is aimed at developing a subsidy which would allow individuals who purchase refillable mugs on campus to receive thirty refills at $.99, instead of the actual price of $1.35. The intention is to offer a stronger sense of benefit to those who make the attempt to purchase and also use the mugs. The fourth project, which received an allocation of $8,625.00, is the Light up UCLA Program. The aim of the project is to reduce used light energy in Kerckhoff by installing new energy-efficient fluorescent bar lights. An allocation of $10,100.00 was made to the fifth proposed project, the Greening the 24th Annual Jazz Reggae festival initiative. The overall purpose of the project is to provide a strong sense of sustainability at this year’s festival, and also to provide a strong foundation for future festivals. The planners will continue to use UCLA facilities and Athens services for event and post-event waste separation of refuse, and there will be a specific focus on recycling and compostable materials. The committee made an allocation of $1,550.00 for a Bike to School Breakfast hosted by the Bike Coalition at UCLA. The event will promote the benefits of bicycling and bike safety. Students in attendance will also be provided with free food, chances to enter a raffle, and other educational materials. The seventh allocation of $1,500.00 was given to the Bruins for Animals education program. The group intends to implement programs to disburse vegan food and information about sustainability. The eighth project, with an allocation of $283.00, is the Green Workshop. The purpose of the project is to teach students about sustainable concepts on campus through use of a workshop. The program will teach everyday sustainable techniques and will be taught by trained volunteer students. The ninth allocation of $212.40 was given to the Vietnamese Graduation to help cover the differential cost of recyclable dishware and promotional materials. The tenth allocation of $450.00 was given to Café Am, also hosted by the Vietnamese Student Union (VSU). The event is VSU’s annual spring talent show that incorporates live performances, and art exhibition, and food sampling into a cultural fusion. The organization will also be covering the differential cost of recyclable dishware and other promotional materials. The eleventh allocation of $840.00 was given to the “Switch to Save” program. Sorority homes will be receiving the funding to purchase energy efficient light bulbs to distribute amongst all of the homes. Finally, an allocation of $176,000.00 was made to fund the Solar Panel Project, put on by B-Green Teams (a subcommittee of the Bruin Democrats). The goal of B-Green Teams is to install a system of solar panels on the roof of the Ackerman Union which would offset electricity drawn from the Los Angeles Department of Water and Power (LADWP) grid. The installation would produce 49.4 KW (DC), 40.9 KW (AC) and would have a total energy output of 69,189 kWh per year. The project will save the building around $23,591.00 per year in operational costs, which would result in direct savings in the long run for UCLA students. An interactive ticker will also be installed to display the energy production of the Ackerman solar panels. The ticker will be placed on the A-Level of the building so that all students will be able to view the impact of the project.

- Nguyen asked how much money will be saved through the installation of the solar panels.
- Zimmerman said that 69,189 kWh of energy will be saved annually, resulting in an estimated $23,591.00 in savings for the Ackerman Union annually.
- Huddy asked if the overall savings will be re-allocated to the TGIF fund after the savings surpass the cost of the project.
- Zimmerman said that the committee is still working on details, and the planners of the project are still working to decide where the savings will be allocated. Overall, the goal is to return the savings back to the students in some form or another. Zimmerman opened the floor to Mullins to offer his opinions.
- Mullins said that it was in his opinion that if the project were to break even after 7 ½ years, all funds should be returned to the students. He also felt that the project could be seen as a symbol of UCLA’s efforts to move forward and progress toward an overall more sustainable campus.
Tressel asked how the TGIF committee will continue to advertise and promote the fund. Zimmerman said that the committee is brainstorming additional marketing avenues surrounding the fund, and will be working to have access to the fund application on MyUCLA.edu and on the USAC website. The committee is also considering the possibility of installing a visual advertising mechanism within the Ackerman Union. The students and advisors have strong intentions to promote the fund. Mullins said that there should be a significant sustainability campaign launched with the added promotion of TGIF. It would show that the campus has an overall commitment to sustainability. He hopes that future committees and councils will engage in additional promotion. Nelson asked if maintenance fees are added into the figures for the solar panel project. Zimmerman said that the committee and the students are working together to determine those additional costs. Bawa asked if off-campus venues can receive funding. Zimmerman said that UCLA based projects are open to funding. She concluded by adding that she will be hosting a workshop this Thursday from 3-4:30pm in AU 2412, to learn and discuss new techniques to make events more sustainable.

B. CALPIRG Resolution—Coreen Weintraub and Sean Carroll

Weintraub attended the meeting tonight joined by Erin Steva and Sean Carroll. She discussed some of the more significant campaign victories of the organization. She mentioned the very successful voter registration drives, work done to pass Proposition 1A to bring a high speed train to California, and successful lobbying efforts to pass SAFRA and the Health Care Bill. Steva is the Transportation and Advocacy director for CALPIRG at UCLA. She attended the University of Minnesota. She works on local, state, and national campaigns. Her job is to research problems, devise a plan, and to decide a route to victory. She attributed the success that CALPIRG has seen to the energy put into its grassroots movement. Carroll discussed his involvement and work on the SAFRA movement. He said that CALPIRG was the organization that inspired him to put energy behind his concerns and issues with government. His job is to train groups of students to become effective recruiters, planners, and lobbyists. Weintraub said that funding is important for the organization to maintain staff such as Steva and Carroll. She said that the goal of the organization fits the University’s mission to produce students who understand how to properly apply their knowledge for the betterment of society, as a whole. The $5 voluntary pledge fee was established in 1994, and the equivalent to that amount today is $10.00. CALPIRG’s income has not kept pace with the costs of the program, as the group works on more program areas now than in 1994. Because of this discrepancy, the organization has relied on grant funding to help supplement costs. However, Weintraub added that grant funding undermines student control and the funds cannot be used for advocacy purposes. She said that CALPIRG could use the additional funding to bring in more advocates and more organizers. This influx of advocates could result in an overall more active organization.

Tan invited all in attendance to attend a showing of the film that he directed, titled “Dilated”. The premiere will take place on May 5th, in Ackerman Union Ballroom at 7:30p.m. The event will also feature other student made films, and will be followed by an after party. He shared a preview of his film with the council.

VI. Appointments

A. Richard Stevenson-Student Financial Advisory Committee (SFAC)

-Bawa said that Stevenson received a unanimous recommendation from ARC. The committee commented that Stevenson will speak out for student advocacy. They were also impressed with his past financial experience, and found him to be a well established student with proper reasons to join the SFAC. With that, Bawa moved and Li seconded to approve the appointment of Richard Stevenson to a respective position on the SFAC. There were no objections, and council entered into discussion.

-Farmer asked Stevenson to describe his qualifications.

-He has worked to engage students and faculty on the ways student funding should properly be applied to programs, and he has also worked with multiple organizations within the UCLA community and the city of Los Angeles. Stevenson feels that his experiences have developed a strong and clear perception that he could bring to the table. He was identified last year by faculty members and was invited to attend a UCLA day of advocacy in Washington D.C.

-Farmer moved and Tep seconded to call to question.

-Council voted unanimously to approve the appointment of Richard Stevenson to the Student Financial Advisory Committee with a vote of 10 in favor, 0 in opposition, and 0 abstentions.

WHEREAS, CALPIRG collected over 2600 voter registrations from UCLA students leading up to the 2008 elections, and reminded over 5000 UCLA students to vote, thus increasing overall student participation in the political process, and increasing the attention that politicians pay to young people; and,

WHEREAS, the CALPIRG chapter at UCLA was established in 1982 and was funded by students through the waivable fee system for 18 years, until 1990; and,

WHEREAS, The new pledge fee amount will only be applied to newly pledging members, and all current pledging members will remain at membership fee of $5 per term, unless that individual pledging member wishes to pledge at the new amount,
