WHEREAS, Bruins of Freedom Summer did not waiver in their commitment to volunteer to help empower black Mississippians to participate in local, state and national elections in the face of ongoing violence perpetrated against them by Ku Klux Klan members and their sympathizers;

WHEREAS, the bodies of Chaney, Goodman, and Schwerner were found buried in an earthen dam on a farm outside Philadelphia, Mississippi;

WHEREAS, Local police had released the three young men to the Ku Klux Klan, who tortured and murdered Chaney, Schwerner and Goodman, before burning their car and hiding their bodies;

WHEREAS, only seven of the eighteen suspects initially indicted by the FBI indicts 18 suspects in the murders of Chaney, Goodman and Schwerner, were eventually found guilty after legal proceedings end in 1967;

WHEREAS, Cal Bears of Freedom Summer returned to their campus and launched the Free Speech Movement;

WHEREAS, Bruins of Freedom Summer returned to UCLA and began working to expand the student role in campus governance i.e. Undergraduate Student Association Council at the same time that CORE, SNCC and SCLC continued campaigning for increased voter registration in the South;

WHEREAS, Dr. King was invited to speak at UCLA on Tuesday, April 27, 1965, to show ongoing UCLA student support for the civil rights movement;

WHEREAS, during his speech, Dr. King invited the UCLA community members to volunteer for the SCLC’s Summer Community Organizing and Political Education Project (SCOPE);
WHEREAS, UCLA students and professors also raised several hundred dollars from attendees that day to benefit SCOPE;

WHEREAS, several UCLA students and other stakeholders did volunteer with SCOPE;

WHEREAS, the efforts of Bruins of Freedom Summer to expand the student role in campus governance resulted in the creation of the Community Service Commission, the Academic Affairs Commission, the Cultural Affairs Commission and the Campus Events Commission;

WHEREAS, Ron Javor, one of the Bruins of Freedom Summer, was elected as the first Community Service Commissioner in the spring of 1965;

WHEREAS, Ron Javor was elected again in during the 1966-1967 academic year, to serve a second consecutive term as the Community Service Commissioner;
